Assessing Writing in the National Assessment Program

The NAPLAN writing task

The writing task for the 2013 writing assessment is a persuasive writing task. It is the same task for all students in Years 3, 5, 7 and 9.

The writing task is provided to the students on a full-colour stimulus sheet. It contains the topic, task instructions and colour images to support the students. The topic and task instructions are read aloud to the students by the teacher. Students have 5 minutes to plan, 30 minutes to write and 5 minutes to edit.

The task instructions will be similar to:

What do you think? Do you agree or disagree? Perhaps you can think of ideas for both sides of this topic. Write to convince a reader of your opinion.

- Start with an introduction. An introduction lets a reader know what you are going to write about.
- Write your opinion on this topic. Give reasons for your opinion. Explain your reasons for your opinion.
- Finish with a conclusion. A conclusion sums up your reasons so that a reader is convinced of your opinion.

Remember to:

- plan your writing
- use paragraphs to organise your ideas
- write in sentences
- choose your words carefully to convince a reader of your opinion
- pay attention to your spelling and punctuation
- check and edit your writing so it is clear for a reader.

Definition

The following definition has shaped the development of the task and the persuasive writing marking criteria.

The purpose of persuasive writing is to persuade a reader to a point of view on an issue. Persuasive writing may express an opinion, discuss, analyse and evaluate an issue. It may also entertain and inform.

The style of persuasive writing may be formal or informal but it requires the writer to adopt a sense of authority on the subject matter and to develop the subject in an ordered, rational way. A writer of a persuasive text may draw on their own personal knowledge and experience or may draw on detailed knowledge of a particular subject or issue.

The main structural components of the persuasive text are the introduction, development of argument (body) and conclusion.

Within the broad persuasive genre and within the context of the given topic, writers may make decisions about themes and subjects they choose to write about and the details they use to develop their ideas. The task does not specify a preference for particular content on the given topic.

The Marking Criteria

Students' writing is assessed using an analytic criterion-referenced marking guide, consisting of a rubric containing ten marking criteria and annotated sample scripts. The ten criteria are:

1	Audience	The writer's capacity to orient, engage and persuade the reader
2	Text structure	The organisation of the structural components of a persuasive text (introduction, body and conclusion) into an appropriate and effective text structure
3	Ideas	The selection, relevance and elaboration of ideas for a persuasive argument
4	Persuasive devices	The use of a range of persuasive devices to enhance the writer's position and persuade the reader
5	Vocabulary	The range and precision of contextually appropriate language choices
6	Cohesion	The control of multiple threads and relationships across the text, achieved through the use of referring words, ellipsis, text connectives, substitutions and word associations
7	Paragraphing	The segmenting of text into paragraphs that assists the reader to follow the line of argument
8	Sentence structure	The production of grammatically correct, structurally sound and meaningful sentences
9	Punctuation	The use of correct and appropriate punctuation to aid the reading of the text
10	Spelling	The accuracy of spelling and the difficulty of the words used

The following table shows the range of score points for each criterion:

Audience	Text	Ideas	Persuasive	Vocabulary	Cohesion	Paragraphing	Sentence	Punctuation	Spelling
	structure		devices				structure
0-6	0-4	0-5	0-4	0-5	0-4	0-3	0-6	0-5	0-6

Using the marking rubric

Each assessment criterion is displayed on a separate page. The top of each page shows the criterion number and name. The skill focus defines the underlying skill being assessed.

Each score category has a category descriptor. A category descriptor is a broad statement describing the particular skill level. This is the overall statement that should be used to make the judgement.

Additional information is included to help shape the judgement. However, this information is not an exhaustive list. Rather, it is indicative of features that may be present in students' writing.

Notes on the bottom of the page provide clarifying detail where necessary.

Sample scripts which exemplify the standard for the category scores are listed. The number in brackets is the page reference of the script.

Sample scripts and their annotations exemplifying the category scores follow the marking rubric. The annotations of the sample scripts describe how the marking criteria have been applied. Together, the criteria and the sample scripts and their annotations are the means by which consistent marker judgements are made. Both are equally important to the marking process.

Discussion scripts with annotations have been included to guide the marking of types of writing that may be encountered.

The Note on Text Structure section gives information about the structural components of the persuasive text type.

Finally, a glossary of terms associated with the marking guide and a spelling reference list are provided.

Criteria

1. Audience

Skill focus: The writer's capacity to orient, engage and persuade the reader.

NOTES

- Words are generally classified into two classes:
 Content words (or lexical items) describe objects and concepts. This class of words consists of nouns, verbs, adverbs, adjectives, noun groups, phrasal verbs and verb groups.
 Grammatical word classes (or structural words) consist of prepositions, articles, conjunctions, pronouns and interjections.
- About a page of writing is needed to consider sustained use.

6. Cohesion

Skill focus: The control of multiple threads and relationships across the text, achieved through the use of referring words, ellipsis, text connectives, substitutions and word associations.

	Category descriptor	Additional information	Sample scripts

Skill focus: The segmenting of text into paragraphs that assists the reader to follow the line of argument.

NOTES

For the purposes of the task, intended paragraphs can be indicated by any of the following conventions:

- indentation of a new line
- space between blocks of text
- student annotations, e.g. P for paragraph or NP for new paragraph, tram lines, square brackets, asterisk
- available space on previous line left unused, followed by new line for paragraph beginning.

8. Sentence structure

NOTES

• 'Most' is approximately 80%.

[•] Some students do not accurately identify their sentence boundaries with punctuation. In these cases it will be necessary to read the intended sentence. Run-on sentences should not be regarded as successful (overly repeated 'and', 'so' etc).

[•] Verb control and preposition errors should be considered as sentence errors.

9. Punctuation

Skill focus: The use of correct and appropriate punctuation to aid reading of the text.

	Category descriptor	Additional information	Sample scripts

NOTES

• In first draft writing, allowances can be made for the very occasional omission of sentence punctuation at Categories 4 and 5.

• 'Mostly' is approximately 80% but it is not intended that every use of punctuation is calculated rigorously.

- Do not penalise for different heading styles. The following styles are all considered acceptable:
 - only the first letter capitalised (It is cruel to keep animals in cages or zoos)
 - the first letter of all major words capitalised (It Is Cruel to Keep Animals in Cages or Zoos)

- all words capitalised (It Is Cruel To Keep Animals In Cages Or Zoos)

- all letters capitalised (IT IS CRUEL TO KEEP ANIMALS IN CAGES OR ZOOS)

• 'Splice' commas used to join two sentences are INCORRECT, e.g. The dog ate my home work, it was hungry. Do not score this as correct sentence punctuation or comma use.

1. Audience	0	Text has the intention of conveying meaning. Although some words appear discernible (he, to, the, all, anuf, wota), text is predominantly strings of letters from which meaning cannot be accessed.
2. Text structure	0	No evidence of structural components of a persuasive text.
3. Ideas	0	Insufficient evidence.
4. Persuasive devices	0	Insufficient evidence.
5. Vocabulary	0	Although some words appear discernible, there is a lack of context to verify meaning.
6. Cohesion	0	Text is predominantly strings of letters that do not support meaning.
7. Paragraphing	0	No paragraphing.
8. Sentence structure	0	No evidence of sentences.
9. Punctuation	0	Text is a random mix of capital and lower case letters. Full stops at the end of lines override the use of one (possibly) correct at end.
10. Spelling	0	Some simple words may be distinguishable (he, to, the, all); however, because text is predominantly letter strings, there is a lack of context to verify meaning.

1. Audience 1		A very short text with some simple content that does not orient the reader.
2. Text structure	1	Minimal evidence of persuasive structure. Text consists of a reason only.
3. Ideas	1	One idea which answers a question posed by the prompt.
4. Persuasive devices	0	Insufficient evidence. Conditional mood (if) and modal verb (cou'd) are present but not used as persuasive devices as there is no opinion to be persuaded to.
5. Vocabulary	1	Very short script with few content words (anmals, die).
6. Cohesion	1	Reference to you is not clear. No other links evident.
7. Paragraphing	0	No paragraphs.
8. Sentence structure	1	Very short script with correct formation of one dependent clause, part of which could stand alone as a simple sentence (some anmals cou'd die).
9. Punctuation	1	One full stop correct. Correct contraction (don't) is not considered as control of sentence punctuation is not demonstrated.
10. Spelling	1	Limited evidence. Less than 20 words are written. Even though there are four correct common words (because, don't, some, die), this cannot be considered for Category 2.

1. Audience	1	Text has simple written content. Some meaning can be accessed through imputation of words. High Category 1.
2. Text structure 1		Minimal evidence of persuasive structure. Text gives an opinion (animals are vare inpotet for aw oref).
3. Ideas	2	One idea with some elaboration.
4. Persuasive devices	1	Two instances of persuasive devices used: statement of authority (animals are vare inpotet for aw oref) and appeal to reader (wi dt we respt theer homs).
5. Vocabulary	2	Mostly simple content words. Some precise use (inpotet oref, respt).
6. Cohesion	1	A short script. Although there are some links (it was sad, theer homs, aw oref, wi dt we respt) across sentences, there is insufficient evidence for Category 2.
7. Paragraphing		No evidence of paragraphing.
8. Sentence structure	2	Most simple sentences are correct. Enough evidence for Category 2.
9. Punctuation	1	Full stop and capital letter after sad are the only clear instances of correct sentence punctuation.
10. Spelling	1	Text contains few examples of conventional spelling. There are some correct simple words and one correct common word. Does not meet requirements for Category 2. Errors include hoem/homs, sor, dedth, cagaro, borg, sot, ever, tim, vare, etc. Simple words correct: I, was, going, and, me, my, mum, it, sad, get, are, for, we. Common word correct: animals.

1. Audience	2	Shows basic awareness of audience expectations. Writer is attempting to orient the reader to the difference between cages and zoos but reader has to fill gaps in information to make sense of this difference.
2. Text structure	1	Minimal evidence of persuasive structure – structural components are not clearly identifiable. Text is a list of opinions with reasons.
3. Ideas	2	The few ideas are related but not elaborated.
4. Persuasive devices	1	Text contains personal opinions (It is really good), some of which have reasons (I think because).
5. Vocabulary	2	Text consists of simple words.
6. Cohesion	2	Key phrases are repeated across text. Noun-pronoun referencing is correct within sentences. There is also cohesion through word associations (animals, birds, tigers, lion's, elephant's, kangaroo's).
7. Paragraphing	0	First line of text is a heading, followed by a new line for each sentence, none of which is elaborated and past a basic idea.
8. Sentence structure	2	One simple, two compound and one complex sentence are correct. Two complex incorrect – in fourth section of text, statement switches to question form. Last section consists of one incorrect sentence and a fragment.
9. Punctuation	3	Sentence punctuation is correct. Other correct use includes commas in list and apostrophe for contraction. Incorrect use of apostrophes for plurals in zoo's, elephant's and kangaroo's and stray capital (Put) keep this from Category 4.
10. Criterion	Score	Annotations
1. Audience	3	There is enough information to orient the reader. Text contains a few points to support two clearly stated but opposing opinions.
2. Text structure	1	Minimal evidence of persuasive structure. Text consists of two sections, both of which are a list of ideas.
3. Ideas	3	Several unelaborated ideas that relate plausibly. Each section consists of four or more unelaborated ideas.
4. Persuasive devices	1	Text contains a list of reasons that support two opposing positions.
5. Vocabulary	2	Mostly simple content words with two instances of precise use (face danger, explore new places).
6. Cohesion	2	Referring words are accurate. A small range of connectives (because, if, and) and word associations (e.g. danger/fight/killed, free/explore new places) are used. Tense used in bullet points is not consistent (e.g. won't/won't/would/will) and does not match stems.
7. Paragraphing	0	Text has line breaks but no correct paragraph breaks.
8. Sentence structure	2	Both stems and their dot points form basic complex sentences of the same type. Text does not show the complexity necessary for a Category 3. Verb error in fourth dot point (cames).
9. Punctuation	2	Text contains at least two accurately punctuated sentences: capital to start stem and full stop after bullet point. However, there is some inconsistency with this style. Capitals to begin bullet points are used consistently and therefore not penalised. Uses two colons, comma for phrasing and slash for he/her . Misses contraction in wont .
10. 1. Audience	3	Argument is clear and supported with some evidence. The distinction between cages and zoos is made clear through reasons presented.
2. Text structure	1	Minimal evidence of persuasive structure. Writer has not used structural components to support the argument. Although text has a sense of ending, the last sentence is not strong enough to be considered a conclusion.
3. Ideas	3	Several ideas are elaborated with some reasons.
4. Persuasive devices	2	Contains two statements of personal opinion (I think should not because; animals should not) and two conditional statements introduced with if .
5. Vocabulary	2	Mostly simple content words with some precise words or word groups (in the wild , break out , habitat).
6. Cohesion	2	Although meaning is clear, text is too short to be considered a sustained piece of writing.

1. Audience	3	Orients the reader by making position clear. There is an attempt to support the reader by presenting sufficient information to provide a line of argument that takes both sides.
2. Text structure	2	Text contains two clearly identifiable structural components: introduction and a body. The last sentence is not strong enough to be considered a conclusion.
3. Ideas	3	Several ideas are elaborated with some reasons.
4. Persuasive devices	2	Several instances of at least two types of persuasive devices that support writer's position. Several statements of personal opinion (e.g. I agree because; I disagree because I think should), conditional (If will), value statement (I know if I wouldn't) and attempt at emphasis (So what I'm trying to say). Not successful enough for Category 3.
5. Vocabulary	2	Text consists mostly of simple words. Precise words are indangered , in the wild , sheltered .
6. Cohesion	2	Some correct referencing. References to This in second paragraph and to they in third paragraph are unclear.
7. Paragraphing	1	Writing is organised into introduction, a two-paragraph body, and conclusion. However neither body paragraph contains a clear topic sentence and ideas are not organised clearly enough for Category 2. An example of a strong Category 1 text.
8. Sentence structure	3	Simple and compound sentences correct (one of each). Some complex sentences correct. Experimentation with complexity is evident in second paragraph. Last sentence of third paragraph (If I was) could have used subjunctive tense (If I were) but writer is not penalised for this. Enough success for Category 3.
9. Punctuation	3	Controls sentence punctuation (seven sentences correct). Correct use of apostrophes for contractions (I'm, don't, woulden't). Incorrect use of apostrophe in panda's. Stray capitals (Panda's, People, Also). Not enough correct use of other punctuation for Category 4.

High Category 3. Common words correct : cruel, animal, cages, agree, also, don't, today, reasons, because, some, like, panda's, they, wild, a nother, people, lion, disagree, think, should, learn, catch, find, own, shelter, too, family, know, touched, what, trying. Common words incorrect : there (their), woulden't. Difficult words correct : statement. Difficult words incorrect : indangered.

I disagree that too much money is spent on toys and games. Decause Some toys and games are educational. Also toys and games can help you to excersize like Skipping basketball transpolines and much more.

Everyone can play with boardgames like Scrabble, Snakes and ladders, Monopoly and hundreds of more!! People also like playing card games like Uno, Snap, gofish and for the older people they might like poked!

So I don't think too much money is spent on toys and games. I think people like my family like games and making up games. So if you think your wasting money make up your own gameand enjog!

1. Audience	3	An internally consistent text that attempts to support reader understanding by providing sufficient information for the text to be followed.
2. Text structure	2	The text contains two clearly identifiable structural components: a body and a conclusion which makes reference to preceding opinion.
3. Ideas	3	Ideas are supported with some elaboration. Ideas include toys and games being used for educational and physical activity purposes, their appeal to all ages and their accessibility.
4. Persuasive devices	2	Devices include personal opinion supported by reasons (So I don't think , I think), and address of reader (So if you think , Everyone can play). Attempts emphasis through lists. Attempts logical reasoning.
5. Vocabulary	2	Mostly simple words including names of popular games and sporting equipment. One precise word (educational).
6. Cohesion	2	Referencing mostly correct. There is unnecessary repetition of toys and games in first paragraph. Uses connectives (also, so) and simple word sets (toys/games/ boardgames/card games; excersize/skipping/basketball; everyone/people/older people/ family).
7. Paragraphing	1	Writing is organised into paragraphs that are focussed on like ideas.
8. Sentence structure	3	Text includes five complex sentences, four of which are correct: I disagree that ; So I don't think too much money ; I think people like ; So if you think Errors are: fragment (Because); incorrect placement of phrase in sentence Also toys and games ; preposition (hundreds of more); and three unnecessary words in compound sentence (People also like). Sufficient evidence for Category 3.
9. Punctuation	4	All sentences are correctly demarcated with capital letters and end-markers (though redundant use of exclamation marks in two sentences). Some correct use of other punctuation – commas in lists, apostrophe for contraction (don't) and noun capitalization for brand name games.
10. Criterion	Score	Annotations
1. Audience	4	Supports reader understanding with sufficient detail on subject matter. Begins to engage and persuade by attempting to establish relationship with a wider audience through language choices (only certain animals, most zoos mimick, reduce the risk of being hunted).
2. Text structure	2	Text contains two clearly identifiable structural components: introduction and a body. The last sentence is not strong enough to be considered a conclusion.
3. Ideas	3	Several ideas are elaborated with some evidence which is mainly assertion/opinion. A solid Category 3.
4. Persuasive devices	2	Several instances of statements of personal opinion: I do not agree but I agree ; In my opinion should ; My idea of ; One of the main reasons that I disagree ; Overall I agree . Several uses of modality (shouldn't be locked up .) Overall, devices are not effective for Category 3.
5. Vocabulary	3	Some use of precise words and word groups: only certain animals, similar to the one, mimick the animals natural habitat so well that, born into captivity, reduce the risk. Not the sustained use needed for Category 4.
6. Cohesion	3	Meaning is clear on first reading. Referencing is correct (I agree with it, lions, tigers and hippos – they, is one … one in Dubbo). Sufficient use of connectives (but then, because, although, so, also, overall).
7. Paragraphing	2	Attempts topic sentences to start each paragraph with some success, e.g. second paragraph. Second and fourth paragraphs have some brief supporting detail. An example of a weak Category 2 text.
8. Sentence structure	3	Most simple, compound and complex sentences are correct but there are not enough sophisticated structures for Category 4. Errors include repetition of animals in second paragraph, fragment in fourth paragraph and incorrect verb (keept).
9. Punctuation	3	Sentence punctuation is mostly correct. One error in fourth paragraph. There are examples of other punctuation, which include commas in lists (correct and incorrect), contractions (one correct and several incorrect), missing apostrophe for possession and some stray capitals. Enough control for Category 3.
10. All animals started off

All animals started off as wild animals, but we put the different animals in captivity for several reasons. Some of those reasons are for food, help with labour or simply for pets. Depending on the reason it can be to cruel or uncruel to keep animals in captivity. For animals such as chickens, cours, pigs and other form animals it isn't cruel to teep them in captivity. We need them to supply us with food, without them we wouldn't have eggs or meat, we would have to become regetarians or die of starcation For working animals' such as dogs or horses if generally isn't crue to keep them in captivity depending on what work they are recquired to do. Dogs love human attention, so it isn't ornel to keep them as pets or working animals. Pets such as cats, dogs fish and birds are fine to be kept in captivity as long as they are not neglected. Cats birds and fish Can take care of themselves the main thing for you to do is give them food and water

Animals such as Lizards, Snakes and other wilder animals are better off left in the wild. Most Wild animals should not be kept in captivity. They need open spaces and can sometimes harm humans, The Vexception is for conservation, some animals such as Pandas need our help to stay alive. keeping animals can be cruel or uncruel depending on the circumstances. If the animal is well looked after and happy then it is uncruel to keep it.

1. Audience	4	Begins to engage and persuade with reasoned argument. Detail provided reveals values.
2. Text structure	3	Three clearly identifiable parts that work together in service of argument. Introduction sets up points of argument that follow, body is developed and conclusion gives a brief summary and restates position.
3. Ideas	3	Each idea has developed elaboration; however, most is assertion or opinion (dogs love human attention, cats, birds and fish can take care of themselves). Not effective for Category 4.
4. Persuasive devices	3	Devices are effective through appeal to reader's logic, emotions and values (e.g. we need them to supply us with food or die of starvation; Dogs love human attention so it isn't cruel to keep them as pets or working animals.)
5. Vocabulary	3	Some precise usage (labour, captivity, supply, vegetarians, starvation, neglected, exception, conservation) but this is not consistent enough for Category 4. Some inaccurate use that includes incorrect word forms (uncruel, wilder).
6. Cohesion	3	Meaning is clear and text flows well in a sustained piece of writing. Referencing is correct. Repetition (For animals such as) to start paragraphs assists the smooth reading of this text. Text uses linking words and phrases (Some of those reasons, depending on the reason, without them). Uses mostly simple word associations (food/eggs/meat/vegetarian).
7. Paragraphing	2	Paragraphs are logically constructed and contain a topic sentence with relevant and focused supporting detail. Strong Category 2.
8. Sentence structure	4	Sentences are correct and demonstrate control of elaborating clauses and phrases. Uses a small range of structures such as non-finite clauses (It isn't cruel to keep them, to supply us) and shifting of clause position in first and third paras (Depending on the reason) but does not have the variety for Category 5.
9. Punctuation	2	Not enough sentence punctuation correct for Category 3, with splice commas (second and fifth paragraphs), missing full stop (fourth paragraph) and missing capital in the final paragraph (keeping). There are several correct uses of commas for lists and apostrophes for contraction. Some correct and some missing commas for phrasing but these are not considered until Category 3 sentence punctuation is achieved.
10. Spelling	5	No errors in simple or common words. At least 10 difficult words correct. Difficult words correct : different, captivity, several, labour, supply, vegetarians, starvation, attention, neglected, exception, conservation, circumstances. Difficult words incorrect : generrally, recquired.

1. Audience	4	Creates an appropriate relationship with reader by using a respectful direct address in opening paragraph. Begins to engage and persuade by presenting a detailed argument supported by examples, some of which are somewhat implausible (This symbolic act inspired the chinese government to take action).
2. Text structure	4	All components are well-developed. Conclusion restates and reinforces position.
3. Ideas	4	Ideas are elaborated and draw on big issues (role of governments and activist groups, human nature) to build argument. Supports using examples and references (Dubbo Zoo, 60 minutes) and by counter argument (Some may argue).
4. Persuasive devices	3	Use of devices is mostly effective. Text appeals to reason and values. Devices include drawing reader's attention (You may have), modifiers to temper intensity of argument (some may argue, many years), conditional mood and emphatic statement (if an animal is crammed into a cage it is wrong), and emotive language.
5. Vocabulary	4	Consistent use of precise words and word groups to enhance meaning with some inaccurate use (e.g. well founder countries, state of the arch, animals well being as safty).
6. Cohesion	3	Text contains word associations for lexical cohesion (habitats/safe haven/enclosure, trapped/crammed), substitution (This abrogation) and repetitive language patterns for effect (e.g is wrong at end of each paragraph, many animals in final paragraph). However, some referencing across text is a little clumsy, e.g. end of first paragraph – what statement is referred to? Not strong enough for Category 4.
7. Paragraphing	3	Paragraphs are ordered, cumulatively build argument across text, and have topic and summary sentences to pace and direct reader attention within paragraphs.
8. Sentence structure	3	Writing shows experimentation with more sophisticated sentence structures and language use. Shows control over most simple, compound and complex sentences but experimentation leads to errors such as incorrect word usage (Many animals are treated in well founder countries), verb errors (e.g. been put, Taked), and incorrect subject (selfish acts of placing an animal). Not the control needed for Category 4.
9. Punctuation	3	Sentence punctuation is mostly correct (two errors) and there is some correct use of commas for phrasing, quotation marks ('60 minutes') and some correct noun capitalisation (Dubbo, Bangladesh, RSPCA, Green Piece ; incorrect on china, chinese). Two possessive apostrophes are missing.
		All simple and most common words correct. Although there are more than 15 difficult words correct, errors prevent Category 6. Names of countries are not considered. Common words incorrect : bread (bred), Piece, safty .
10. Spelling	5	Difficult words correct : noticed, issue, captured, statement, habitats, countries, enclosure, forests, argue, government, attempt, fauna, decided, symbolic, inspired, recently, featured, symbolises, destructive, force, supported, activist, integrity.
		Difficult words incorrect: appauling, flaure. Challenging words incorrect: desprite/despriately, sanctuarys, abrogratio/abrogration.

1. Audience	5	Supports and engages reader by providing detailed information on a range of situations in which animals are kept. Language choices create respect for reader and persuade reader to writer's position.
2. Text structure	3	Text contains three identifiable components, two of which are developed. Introduction refines topic to situations of captivity where cruelty depends on treatment, body elaborates with examples and less developed conclusion is a brief summary and reflection on human behaviour.
3. Ideas	4	Ideas are elaborated, contribute effectively to writer's position and reflect on wider- world issues.
4. Persuasive devices	4	Sustained and effective use of persuasive devices. A range of types is used: personal opinion (I think x 2), appeal to reader x 3 (us), conditional mood, authoritative statements, repetition (grasslands of Africa/ grasslands of Taronga; work for dinner/ work for visitors) and modality (I should see no point, animals can be kept).
5. Vocabulary	4	Precise words (majority, captivity, culture, blackmarket, mistreatment, forced, educate) and word groups (under certain circumstances, treated poorly, domesticated pets, wildlife care and research centres) used consistently. Experimentation with language structures (mostly nominalisations) leads to some inaccurate use: below standard levels, live upon unethical conditions, plays a large part of captivity).
6. Cohesion	3	Uses word associations (blackmarket, mistreatment, unethical conditions), pronouns (it, this, these, they), connectives (if, but, then, however) and ellipsis (The difference being). Minor errors include redundant article (the certain spieces) and incorrect pronoun (The allow us). Not highly cohesive enough for Category 4.
7. Paragraphing	1	Body is separated from introduction and ending.
8. Sentence structure	4	Most simple, compound and complex sentences are correct. Error in an extended simple sentence in first paragraph. Uses some non-finite clauses (forced to live , Animals living in zoos, keeping animals is only cruel). Does not have the variety for Category 5. Other 'errors' have been considered in cohesion or vocabulary.
9. Punctuation	3	Most sentences are correct. One missing capital to begin. Correct use of other punctuation includes apostrophe for contraction and commas for lists. Some correct commas for phrasing. Uses many random capitals, incorrect apostrophe in a plural (zoo's), and misses noun capitalisation for africa and toronga .
10. Spelling	5	All simple and most common words correct. Although there are 15 difficult words correct, errors prevent Category 6. Common words incorrect : allthough, coarse (course). Difficult words correct : statement, certain, circumstances, standard, majority, captivity, culture, research, forced, unethical, conditions, cruelly, decide . Difficult words incorrect : demesticated , mistreatement, spieces. Challenging words correct : responsibility.

Food, water and other ness along supplies are what money should be spent on Many people believe that too much money is being spent on useless tays and games.

Toys and games one a good entertainment for kids and are able to keep them occupied. They are function for the children using them and certain jones con improve on the childs excersise rate, recepting them active. Many toys are used for fun and enjoyment but there are many that can help the child, whether it's rearning something new and useful, keeping the child aware or developing their brains, education wise.

As many good things come out of having tays and playing games, there are negatives and many people are agreeing that there is no much money being spent. Hundreds of dollars are being spent requarky on toys and games, when it could be going to better use. Important supplies and nessesities are useful things that parents for adjusts should be spending money on. Of course dildren are going to need tays and games, but I believel they should have a limited amount, as there are more important things.

Food, water and other nessasary supplies

Having games like playstations, computer games and Nintendo DS games can make the child addicted to playing the game, and will have less time to neep active. Too much electronic games are not healthy for children's brains and proces them to become 1934.

I believe that kids should limit their needs on games and tays because the monoy spent can be used for more important use, it is unhearthy and compresent them from aving other activities. This page has been left blank intentionally.

"It is cruel to keep animals in tages and zoos." So you think that you wouldn't mind having bours surrounding you faces peering in any minute of the day and Rept away from your natural habitat? If humans can have a voice why can't animals. The statement suggesting that it is cruel to keep animals in rapies and zoos, I think, is accurate. Animals have romed this bund before the destructive race of humans and we should not have the right to take control of their lines.

If animals are kept in zoos or cages all of their life they have no chance if or when they are let out into the wild. Allhough some zoos may cloum that they have technology to provide the prismen with pacticles to make their enclosures seens northinal, if will never be the same. In the wild animals grow up tearing to be predetors to ratch their own food, which animals are of clanger to them, and clevelop skills such as a fastness and attacking methods. What skills are they going to learn in a small indessure?

Zoo keepers may arrouge that being kept in a raige increases the chance of survival and allows reproduction to continue. Even though this is true, rather than it locking them away, humans could help by protecting their natural environment preventing the amount of-

Text appeals to readers' emotions, values and reason. Writing has strong voice.
2. Text structure	4	All parts are well developed. Strong introduction states position clearly. Body contains two points of argument that are elaborated and the conclusion reiterates position and makes a general statement that succinctly summarises this position.
3. Ideas	5	Text advocates for animal rights and freedom in the wild. These ideas are elaborated and contribute effectively to writer's position. Also develops position by refutation and making recommendations (humans could help by).
4. Persuasive devices	4	Devices suit style of argument (predominantly emotive). They include appeal to reader, emotive language choices, modality (we should not have the right), emphatic statements (it will never be the same, certainly cruel), conditional mood (If animals are kept) and rhetorical questions (If humans can have a voice, What skills are they going to learn?), and emphasis (should).
5. Vocabulary	4	Consistent use of precise words and word groups with some inaccuracy (amount of deaths, skills of fastness and attacking methods).

zoos can have useful purposes

To keep animals in zoos can bave useful purposes for research and can protect animals who may not survive in the wild. However, to keep animals locked in cages is a cruelty and injustice to animals.

Zoos have some advantages when it comes to keeping animals in captivity. For endangered animals zoos can provide protection for those who would not survive in the wild, and have breeding programs that ensure the survival of these animals. If animals are kept in well established facilities, and the ZOUS are well funded to meet the health's and medical needs of all the animals, then there is no reason why these animals should not be well looked after. However, in many countries around the world, zoos have little money and terrible, small cramped areas. If elephants are kept in small facilities, this causes! damage to their feet that can often not be repaired. These conditions can be argued as cruel. to animals. To heep animals trapped in an environment for the Soul purpose of entertainment is a terrible mistreadment. Many animals life expectancy, can be greatly decreased when taken from the wild and placed in captivity. The whale shark can live to over a hundred years of age in the wild, but when trapped in a tank, this is shorterned to just three years. This is mostly because i of the small size of their living area. This is why heeping animals in chaes, disregarding their need por J open spaces, is a terrible act of crienty and mistreatment. ZOOB may provide protection por animals, but some cause more harm then they provent. If animals. need to be hept in captivity to survive, they can be moved to proper, open sanctuaries with their own wind in their havral habitat. Is Too Much Money Spent on Toys and Games? It is important for human beings to set aside time for leisure and recreational activities in order to relax and enjoy themselves. However, it is not abnormal for people to become obsessed by such activities and spend too much time and money on them. As a teenager/ adolescent, the reality is, a lot of time and money will often be spent on video games or toys for younger children. I believe that money spent on such things should be regulated.

As I mentioned earlier, it is important for us to participate in leisure and recreational activities. The reality is, many of these activities cost money, and that money is money gone from your or your parents/guardians savings. It is unnecessary for someone to purchase 10-15 video games when the person only really plays 4 or 5. This is ironic, because I myself, am a culprit of such a thing, but I have learnt the hard way to spend my money more wisely.

Not only does spending too much on games and toys lose you or others money, it also makes you lose interest in more productive 'activities such as sports which keep you fit and healthy and expand your social networks. Although I and many others wish it was the case, playing with toys and video games doesn't exactly get you physically fit, although some games have been proven to improve eyesight and mental ability.

Although I have talked about the costs that games and toys canincur if not used in moderation, I still believe it is important to allocate some money to such activities, to keep the person in a good frame of mind. However, spending too much money on these activities can also cause one to develop bad habits regarding how they spend their money as an adult. It is important for young adults to learn that leisure time is only one facet of life, and that everything should be done in moderation.

In conclusion, I believe it is important to allocate time and money to toys and games, however, everything must be done in moderation and it is an important role of parents/guardians to ensure that time and money spent on these activities is regulated. This page has been left blank intentionally.

8. Sentence structure	6	Sentences are correct and consistently effective, e.g. paragraph four, first sentence. Dependent clause position is varied and controlled. Stylistically appropriate for text type.
9. Punctuation	4	All sentence punctuation is correct. Mostly correct use of other. Commas are mostly correct (incorrect after myself) and uses a comma instead of semicolon in last paragraph (toys and games, however). Correct apostrophe for contraction (doesn't) but missing apostrophe for possession (parents/guardians savings).
10. Spelling	6	Correct spelling of all words. Text meets requirements for Category 6. Difficult words correct : recreational, activities, reality, regulated, mentioned, participate, guardians, purchase, ironic, culprit, productive, healthy, ability, incur, moderation, allocate, develop, facet, conclusion, ensure. Challenging words correct : leisure, adolescent, obsessed, physically, unnecessary.

1. Audience	2	Some information is provided to support the reader. Does not meet the audience expectation of a persuasive text. Attempts to develop a scenario about the topic but text is not internally consistent.
2. Text structure	0	No evidence of structural components of a persuasive text. Attempts to address the topic and the task by using narrative form.
3. Ideas	3	Several ideas related to the topic with some elaboration.
4. Persuasive devices	0	No evidence of persuasive devices.
5. Vocabulary	2	Uses mostly simple words and word groups (one glorious morning, get dressed, brush my teeth, crying). Some precise use (shed a tear, looked at me straingly).
6. Cohesion 2		Text has correct noun-pronoun referencing (cup it it it), simple lexical cohesion (tear/tantrum/crying) and a small selection of connectives (one glorious morning, on the way, then, so). Tense changes across text from present to past. Incorrect conjunction (straingly that).
7. Paragraphing	0	Text has a title which is repeated in a statement of intent. No paragraphing in narrative.
8. Sentence structure 2		Text consists of mostly correct simple and compound sentences. There are some complex sentences: two have 'if' dependent clauses and all others use projected clauses ("Well who knows?" I said; I said to myself "What do you think), but insufficient evidence for a category 3. Error in preposition use (spent in things).
9. Punctuation	3	Most sentences are punctuated correctly (more than 80%). There are missing full stops after TANTRUM , we will get it, and dad said. Missing capital to start sentence then I said. There are two or more different examples of other punctuation: noun capitalisation and two correct apostrophes for contraction (didn't , I've). Attempts direct speech and colon to introduce list. There are two missing contractions (its time, were here ,) and a missing comma in list (I get dressed etc).
10. Spelling	3	Most simple and most common words correct. Note on Text Structure

The structural components of the persuasive text are the introduction, the development of argument (body) and the conclusion.

A text may comprise some or all components. The development of the components increases with the sophistication of the text.

The Introduction

The purpose of the introduction is to introduce the reader to the main idea of the essay. It should provide some context or identify issue(s) associated with the topic, and it should capture the interest of the reader and tell why the topic is important.

An introduction contains a thesis statement which states the topic and the writer's position on it and describes the line of argument to be taken in the writing. It may use:

- a formulaic structure to outline a list of arguments, or main ideas, to be developed in the body (All animals started off)
- a pertinent fact followed by some elaboration (Zoos can have useful purposes)
- a short, relevant anecdote to illustrate the topic (The lion's glorious hair)
- generalisations about the topic (Cages and Zoos).

The introduction may also focus on an aspect of the topic by narrowing the perspective to be taken. This may be achieved through definition, explanation or exemplification (Under certain circumstances).

A less developed introduction contains a clearly identifiable statement of the writer's position on the given topic. The statement provides the reader with a clear idea of the writer's position. There is little or no elaboration of the position (I agree and don't agree; My idea of a perfect zoo).

Some texts (any other animal; they try to break out) do not have a clearly identifiable section which fulfills the purpose of an introduction. These texts may begin with an opinion immediately followed by a reason or reasons. These statements read as points of argument and could belong in either an introduction, a body or a conclusion. They give the reader little or no idea of the direction the argument will take and are not clearly identifiable as an introduction.

Development of argument (body)

The body is used to convince the reader to agree with the position taken. It develops the point or points of argument that have been outlined or foreshadowed in the introduction.

A case for each point of argument is developed with supporting evidence that may include explanation, examples, comparisons, contrasts, expert opinion or references, quotations, data and/or anecdotes.

Some students will make the case for one side of the argument. Others will write in support of both sides with varying degrees of sophistication. In doing this, some may list points in support of both sides without coming to a position on the topic. Others may work their way towards a conclusion, discussing the pros and cons of the topic to arrive at a position.

Conclusion

The purpose of the conclusion is to bring closure to the argument in a way that reinforces the writer's position on the topic.

A conclusion may:

- use a formulaic structure to summarise the thesis statement and/or points of the essay by either restating them exactly or by retelling them in different words (All animals started off; Cages and zoos; Under certain circumstances; If humans can have a voice why can't animals)
- provide a final perspective or reflection on the topic that reinforces the thesis or writer's position in a meaningful way. This may include:
 - a personal perspective or reflection
 - an anecdote or quote
 - a plan of action
 - a call to action (The lions glorious hair)
 - a recommendation
- draw conclusions by synthesising the ideas presented in the points of argument, thus arriving at a new perspective (not to be confused with introducing 'new' material).

Some texts do not have a clearly identifiable section which fulfills the purpose of a conclusion. These texts may finish with a brief ending statement that gives closure to the writing. The reader has a sense that the writer has finished their writing (they try to break out; I agree and don't agree, My idea of a perfect zoo).

GLOSSARY Section 1: Persuasive devices

Overview of Persuasive Rhetorical Discourse

Following the classical philosophers, persuasive rhetorical discourse is constituted by:

- the selection of ideas (invention)
- the arrangement of the ideas into arguments or proofs (disposition)
- the choice of language (style)

Ethos, Logos and Pathos are the means by which persuasion to a point of view on an issue can occur.

Ethos: persuading by appealing to the readers' values Logos: persuading by the means of logical reasoning Pathos: persuading by appealing to the reader's emotion

Ethos - appeal to values	Logos - appeal to reason	Pathos - appeal to emotion
Value of relationships	Dispassionate language	Emphatic statements
Appeal to truth	Objective author stance	Emotive language
Duty of care	Citing of a relevant authority	Direct appeal to the reader
Creation of a just society	Objective view of opposition	Appeal to spurious authority
Community responsibility	Qualified measured statements	Disparagement of opposition

The following table lists some features of arguments that draw on Ethos, Logos and Pathos.

Persuasive Devices

Authoritative statement

Statements that are irrefutable in the context of the argument e.g. Dogs love human attention.

Conditional mood

The conditional mood is recognised by subordinate clauses beginning with words or phrases such as if, unless, as long as, even if, even though, on the condition that.

Direct address of the reader

A direct address of the reader, recognised by the use of you/us/we, has the effect of drawing the reader to identify with the writer's position.

- You may have noticed that over the last couple of years the issue of animals ...

- We need them to supply us with food.

Emphasis

- Punctuation (e.g. underlining, bolding, exclamation mark, capitalisation, quotation marks)
- Overstatement
- Understatement
- Repetition for effect
- Single words
- Words or phrases at the beginning or end of successive clauses or statements e.g. the grasslands of Africa and the grasslands of Taronga zoo ...
- Repetitions and parallel constructions in threes (e.g. tricolon, lists) to build to a culmination.
- Anecdote (see Figurative language, below)

Emphatic statements

Emphatic statements are forcible statements that are used to give emphasis.

- I should see no point in how it may be cruel.
- It will never be the same.

Figurative language

Figurative language refers to the techniques of language which help construct images in the reader's mind and includes alliteration, imagery, similes and metaphors, personification, idioms and word play (pun). Anecdote may also be used to illustrate or emphasise an issue (e.g. see the script The lion's glorious hair).

Humour, irony and sarcasm

Humour is shown where the amusing or comical is expressed.

Irony occurs when the literal meaning is the opposite of that intended. It may be expressed as an understatement, be used in a playful manner or to ridicule.

Sarcasm is scornful or derisory comment. It may be employed through irony (to ridicule).

Hyperbole

Hyperbole is a figure of speech in which statements are exaggerated. It may be used to evoke strong feelings or to create a strong impression, but is rarely meant to be taken literally.

Imperative mood

The imperative mood is present in statements of high modality that are used to express direct requests and commands, either positively or negatively, for the effect of excluding argument. It addresses either the second person (you) or first person plural (we), e.g. Don't let it happen again! or We must stop caging animals now!

Modality

Modality covers expressions of how the world might be and should be and includes expressions of necessity, permissibility and probability, and negations of these.

- Modal verbs of permissibility and probability: would/wouldn't, should/shouldn't,
- could/couldn't, may/may not, might/might not
- Modal verbs with high modality (necessity): must, will, need to, have to
- Modal adjectives: possible, probable, certain
- Modal adverbs: possibly, probably, certainly
- Modal nouns: possibility, probability, certainty

Personal opinion

- I think it is cruel to put animals in cages.
- In my opinion only certain animals should be locked up.

Reference statements

Reference statements are those where a source is cited. They may lend authority to an argument. In the context of the NAPLAN writing test, allowances are be made for the test conditions where students do not have access to research material.

Rhetorical questions

Rhetorical questions implicitly contain their own answer.

- This is a lion in captivity. Is this cruel?

Value statements

- I believe that if an animal is in a good habitat but treated unfairly it is wrong.
- Animals can be kept in small cages for weeks and starved, forced to live upon unethical conditions.

Section 2: Vocabulary

Adjective

Adjectives are words that give additional information about the noun. They can be used before a noun or after a verb.

Before a noun: Stubborn teenagers will not heed sensible advice. After a verb: Teenagers can be stubborn.

Adverb

Adverbs give additional information about verbs, adjectives and other adverbs. They tell how, when and where something happens, e.g. he walked slowly; I'll see you tomorrow; the dog ran away, he arrived extremely late, the animal grew increasingly restless. The final two examples show adverbial phrases.

Figurative language – see Section 1: Persuasive Devices

Metaphor

A metaphor is a figure of speech where one thing is said to be another. They do not use like or as, e.g. The work done by volunteers is the glue that holds a community together. My fingers are ice.

Noun

Nouns are known as naming words. There are two main classifications of nouns: common nouns and proper nouns. Common nouns name people, places or things and are said to be either concrete (e.g. boy, city, sheep, chair, family, sunshine), collective (flock, army, crowd, band) or abstract (hope, frustration, liberty). Proper nouns name specific people, places or things and should always start with a capital letter, e.g. James, Canberra, Dubbo Zoo.

Preposition

Prepositions (from the Latin meaning placed before) express a time or space relationship between two people or things. They are words such as below, for, down, above, to, near, under, since, between, with, before, after, into, from, beside, without, out, during, past, over, until, through, off, on, across, by, in, around, onto. Prepositions are always followed by a noun or pronoun. Prepositional phrases, e.g. in the wild; with tears in her eyes, can be used as a device to enhance description.

Pronoun

A pronoun stands in place of a noun or noun group. A pronoun refers to something that has been named and has already been written about, e.g. The harbour is a popular place. It is mostly used by fishermen. Pronouns work only if they are not ambiguous (that is, there is a clear line of reference) and are not used too repetitively. Examples of common pronouns are:

I, you, she, it, we, they, mine, ours, yourself, himself this, that, these, those each, any, some, all, much, many who, which, what, whose, whom You can't keep all the apples yourself! These are mine. Some will be given to Peter. Who is visiting tomorrow?

Simile

A simile is a figure of speech which compares one thing with another by using like or as, e.g. Without the business that teenagers bring, the shopping centre would be like a wasteland. The two things being compared must be different, e.g. the example The distant building looked like a castle would not be a simile if the building was in fact a castle.

Verb

Verbs are the basis of any message communicated. They are the engine of the sentence or clause and provide movement or action, or a sense of what is happening. Different types of verbs are used, depending on the purpose of the text. The writing could feature:

- action verbs ('doing' words): The animals are fed every day.
- saying verbs: I have explained why animals should not be kept in cages; scientists report better outcomes for the animals in open sanctuaries.
- thinking verbs: I believe that ..., I agree with ..., I think my idea is ..., it is thought that
- relational verbs: We have the right. They will not be free.

Extended verb groups indicate many sentence features, such as tense and modality, e.g. They have been working on it for a long time. (tense); Animals should not be kept in captivity. (modality).

Section 3: Cohesion

Cohesion is about linking ideas or concepts and controlling threads and relationships over the whole text. Cohesion in a text is achieved through use of various devices.

Connectives (signal words or discourse markers)

Connectives are used to link ideas to one another across paragraphs and sentences to show logical relationships of time, cause and effect, comparison or addition. They can be placed at various positions within a sentence.

The logical relationships can be grouped as follows:

- Temporal (to indicate time or sequence ideas)
- first, second, next, meanwhile, till, while, then, later, previously, finally, to conclude Causal (to show cause and effect)
 - because, for, so, consequently, due to, hence, since, accordingly
- Additive (to add information)
 - also, moreover, above all, equally, besides, furthermore, as well as, or, nor, additionally
- Comparative
 - rather, elsewhere, instead, alternatively, on the other hand
- Conditional/concessive (to make conditions or concessions)
 - yet, still, although, unless, however, otherwise, still, despite, nevertheless
- Clarifying

in fact, for example, in support of this, to refute

Conjunctions are a form of connective and are used to join ideas within one sentence. They are placed at the beginning of a clause. Some conjunctions are and, but, by, or, if, since, although, though.

Ellipsis

Ellipsis is the omission of words that repeat what has gone before; these items are simply understood.

The project will be innovative. To be involved will be exciting. In the second sentence, in the project is ellipsed.

Referring words

Referring words maintain continuity and avoid repetition.

- Noun-pronoun chains: You should not put animals in cages because they would want to be in the wild with their family.
- Articles (e.g. a, an, the): My idea of a perfect zoo is the one in Dubbo
- Demonstratives (e.g. this, that, there, these): That bicycle was very expensive. John had owned mice before but this mouse was different.
- Quantifying determiners (e.g. every, much, many, most, numbers): There is much interest being shown. Many children went to the zoo. The rule applies to every person. I have one car.

Substitution

Substitution refers to words that replace noun groups or verb groups: such, one: There was a lot of swearing and abuse. Such language is simply not acceptable.

Word associations (or lexical cohesion)

- Repetition: They have to work for dinner ... they have to work for visitors.
- Synonyms: The weather had been hot. It was another boiling day.
- Antonyms: Wild animals should not be kept in captivity. They need open spaces.
- Word sets: class and sub-class, or whole and part clusters of words: Wild animals/lions, tigers, hippos; food/eggs, meat.
- Collocation: words which typically go together, making the text flow well. cages/bars/locked; river/bank/water.

Section 4: Sentence structure

4.1 SENTENCES

A sentence is a group of words that makes complete sense. It is marked in writing by beginning with a capital letter and ending with a full stop, question mark or exclamation mark. There are four functions for sentences:

Making statements: The girl shot a goal. Asking questions: Did the girl shoot a goal? Uttering commands: Shoot the goal! Voicing exclamations: What a great goal!

4.2 SENTENCE AND CLAUSE TYPES

Simple sentence

A simple sentence is one that contains a single clause. Birds should be let free.

Compound sentence

In compound sentences there are two or more clauses which are coordinated, or linked, so that each clause has equal status. Clauses in compound sentences are usually joined by the conjunctions and, but, or, and so and then. Birds should be released and allowed back in the wild.

Complex sentence

A complex sentence contains embedded and/or subordinate clauses. The feature of embedded clauses is that the clause is part of the structure of another clause and therefore does not have a coordinating relationship with the main clause.

Subordinating clause: When the birds are let free, they will be able to catch their own food. Embedded clause: When the birds that have been locked up are let free, they will be able to catch their own food.

Adjectival clause

An adjectival (or relative) is a clause that gives additional information about a noun or noun group. It is embedded if the information it provides is located within the subject or object of another clause. An adjectival clause generally (but not always) begins with a relative pronoun such as who, which or that.

Subject: The play equipment that children love is not necessarily the safest equipment in the playground.

Object: Children love playing with equipment which allows them to use their imagination.

Adverbial clause

An adverbial clause is a subordinate or dependent clause that provides optional information about time, place, condition, concession, reason, purpose or result.

Time: After studying so hard during the week, all students want to do on the weekend is relax. Concession: Children may still get hurt, even if the climbing equipment is removed. Condition: If the cage is too small, the animals cannot move around. Reason: The ban should be lifted because it discriminates against teenagers.

Noun clause

A noun clause is a clause that acts as the subject or object of another clause. Subject: What he had been ordered to do weighed heavily on his mind. Object: Some studies show that crimes committed by teenagers are rising. Subject with adjectival clause: Conserving endangered animal species that are threatened by habitat destruction should be the priority of all zoos.

4.3 BASIC STRUCTURES

The examples below exemplify basic sentence structures referred to in the Sentence Structure criterion of this marking guide. Independent clauses are underlined.

Basic simple sentence

Animals are important.

Basic complex sentence with projected clause

I think (that) you should not put animals in cages.

Basic complex sentence with dependent clause following main clause

It is cruel because the animals don't have freedom.

Basic compound/complex sentence

It is good to keep birds in cages but other animals can go into the zoo.

Basic complex sentence with projected clause and dependent clause following main clause

I think (that) it is cruel because the animals don't have freedom. I agree that people are unkind when they do not treat animals well.

Basic complex sentence with dependent clause starting with 'if' preceding main clause If the cage is too small, the animal cannot move around.

4.4 MORE SOPHISTICATED STRUCTURES

The examples below exemplify more sophisticated sentence structures referred to in the Sentence Structure criterion of this marking guide. Independent clauses are underlined.

Extended simple sentence

Like all living things, animals have personalities too.

Complex sentence containing projected clause and dependent clause following main clause I agree that animals should be kept in cages because they won't need to fight other animals.

Compound/complex sentence with adverbial phrase preceding first clause and embedded clause within the second clause

One glorious morning I woke up and it was time to go to the shops.

Complex sentences containing dependent clauses starting with 'when' and 'because' preceding main clause

When animals are kept in captivity, their life expectancy is reduced. Because animals need open spaces, they should not be locked in cages.

Extended complex sentence with dependent clauses following main clause

For working animals such as dogs or horses, it generally isn't cruel to keep them in captivity depending on the work they are required to do.

Extended complex sentence

You may have noticed that, over the last couple of years, the issue of animals' wellbeing has been debated time and time again.

Extended complex with two dependent clauses – one preceding and one following the main clause

Being aware of the need to feed the animals properly, the zookeeper worked hard to provide a nourishing diet that ensured their health.

Extended complex sentence with extended (compound) dependent clause following the main clause

Zoo keepers may argue that being kept in a cage increases the chance of survival and allows reproduction to continue.

Extended complex sentence containing multiple dependent clauses

Although I agree that releasing animals into the wild may be beneficial to some animals, I do believe that most zoos, as least those that are operated by trained and caring people, succeed in providing animals with good care.

Section 5. Punctuation

Punctuation is used to aid the smooth reading of a text.

Brackets

Round brackets, or parentheses, enclose information or comment within an otherwise complete sentence. Brackets are used for adding information, giving explanations, clarification, providing examples, and afterthoughts, comments and asides.

Colons

Colons are normally used to signal the following: a list: The children do the same things every day: climb, jump, play on the swings and build build sandcastles. an explanation: One consequence is inevitable: people will get hurt.

a subtitle: School Safety: Can Cameras Combat Crime?

Commas

Commas are used within sentences to separate information into readable units and guide the reader as to the relationship between phrases and clauses. Commas act as markers to help the reader voice the meaning of long sentences, e.g. when a sentence begins with a phrase or a subordinate clause, the comma indicates where the main clause begins.

Commas are also used to separate items in a list.

Hyphen

The hyphen is a small dash that is used to:

- link two words to form a single word: one-way street; like-minded friend; button-like nose.
- clarify meaning and avoid ambiguity: Man-eating tiger seen at zoo; Her grandmother owned a walking-stick.
- avoid letter collision: shell-like; re-establish, co-worker.

Points of ellipsis

Points of ellipsis (...) are used to indicate the omission of text, suspense or a time lapse.

Quotation marks

Quotation marks (or inverted commas) identify words that are spoken by a character (direct speech) or written words that belong to people other than the writer. There is an increasing trend for single quotation marks (' ...') to be used in place of double quotation marks although this is a matter of style.

Semicolons

Semicolons are used to separate two independent clauses containing different though related pieces of information: the use of a semicolon strengthens the link between ideas, e.g. the installation of closed circuit television cameras will make teachers and students more self conscious; schools will no longer be a comfortable place. This could be written as two separate sentences. The use of a comma in this example would make the sentence incorrect.

Semicolons are also used to separate complex items in a list, e.g. In the event of a fire, all students must: leave the building immediately; not attempt to take any materials with them; assemble in the main quadrangle with their roll class.

Using semicolons with conjunctive adverbs

A semicolon should be used to join two independent clauses when the second clause begins with a conjunctive adverb that relates to (ties in with) the idea of the first clause or it is of equal emphasis. The conjunctive adverb and the clause that follows must stand alone, i.e. it can be written as one sentence.

A full stop is used where more emphasis is required for the second clause. In the following examples, both versions are correct.

We would like to go Morocco for the holidays; accordingly, we will have to apply for visas. We would like to go Morocco for the holidays. Accordingly, we will have to apply for visas.

They wanted to go to the concert; however, it was impossible to get a ticket. They wanted to go to the concert. However, it was impossible to get a ticket.

Some conjunctive adverbs are: accordingly, furthermore, moreover, nevertheless similarly, however, therefore, otherwise, instead namely, still, finally, consequently, indeed, certainly.
