Joeys

A baby kangaroo is called a joey.

A joey lives in its mother's pouch where it is warm and safe. It drinks its mother's milk to grow.

When a joey is old enough, it can leave its mother's pouch each day. It can eat some grass and then hop back into its mother's pouch.

When it is ten months old, the joey leaves the pouch for good. It stays with its mother until it is two years old.
